"The RTC is proud to play an essential role in our region's economic comeback, and we look forward to helping our customers as we get through the COVID-19 crisis together," said Francis Julien, RTC deputy chief executive officer. "We are welcoming back many of our customers as our communities reopen, but we are also continuing to promote safety first and urging customers to be just as vigilant."

To help prevent the spread of germs, customers are encouraged to continue to wear face coverings. Additionally, the following health and safety measures will remain in place until further notice:

- Cleaning and disinfecting all RTC fixed route and paratransit vehicles daily.
- Providing more space on routes by incorporating as many larger, high-capacity 60-foot or double-decker buses as possible, even on routes that do not typically need them.
- Reducing close-proximity seating on buses with signs on seats that prompt riders to sit farther apart.
