The Mid-Atlantic Nursery Trade Show (<http://www.mants.com/>) (MANTS) has announced that the 2021 show, initially scheduled for January 6-8, is unable to take place as an in-person event. Due to COVID-19 concerns, ongoing restrictions on large indoor gatherings, and unforeseen unavailability at the Baltimore Convention Center, MANTS organizers are, instead, working to provide an online platform where exhibitors and attendees can conduct business.

“The health and safety of our exhibitors and attendees is our primary focus,” says MANTS Executive Vice President Vanessa Finney. “We’ve exhausted all other alternative dates for an in-person show, and while we are disappointed that we can’t meet in person, we are committed to keeping commerce within our industry alive and healthy. MANTS’ continued support of our show sponsors, the State Nursery and Landscape Associations of Maryland, Virginia, and West Virginia is critical despite the pandemic.”

The horticulture industry has remained strong, with interest in home gardening especially on the rise across the country due to quarantine. With many industry shows canceled in 2020 due to coronavirus, MANTS stands uniquely positioned to ensure exhibitors and buyers remain connected even though they cannot meet face to face.

“MANTS has meant business for the green industry for 50 years, and we plan to continue this tradition into 2021,” Finney says. “We have long said that MANTS means business, and that has traditionally meant in-person and face-to-face, but over the next few weeks, we are working on an alternate way to keep that business relationship between exhibitor and buyer healthy and available through 2021.”

Additional details on MANTS 2021 plans will be shared in the weeks to come.
